DAVIS, Thomas J. Last Rites Held For Pioneer. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Christian church for Judge Thomas J. Davis who had been seriously ill for the past several months. Rev. C. E. Madinger brought the message and Mrs. Ott Warren and Mrs. Ernest Hart sang, with Mrs. H. Bohannon at the piano. The Willcox Funeral Home was in charge. "Judge" Davis was one of the friendliest men that Willcox has ever had in its midst. He knew not race or class. His criterion of a person was his moral worth. He had no use for those who broke the moral laws, especially deliberately. However, in the administering of the office of Justice of Peace he tried to give the man the sentence the law demanded and not what he thought should be done. Although he was eligible for old age pension, Judge Davis chose to be self-supporting right up to the last. He ran his news stand until November of last year when ill health forced him to retire and he had run for re-election for justice of peace in the summer although he had suffered a severe sick spell the year before. He was born in Chataqua County, Kansas on Feb. 23, 1873 to Jesse M. and Roxanne Davis. His mother died when he was a lad of seven and he was reared with uncles until he was 15 years old, when he took out on his own. In 1893 he went to work for the Santa Fe railroad as a boilermaker's apprentice in Nickerson, Kansas. After working for the Santa Fe and the Texas and Pacific, he came to Tucson in 1903 and began employment with the Southern Pacific railroad. In March of 1908, during the "panic" he was laid off and came to Willcox where he homesteaded four miles north of town. With his first wife, Katherine, whom he married in Hutchinson, Kans. on Jan 13, 1907 he began a dairy business on his homestead. The couple had two boys, Vernon G. and Emmett M. Mr. Davis' first wife died in 1919 and he later married Minnie T. Bryan in 1922. His second wife died in February 1944. Selling his farm and dairy business in 1942, Mr. Davis enjoyed retirement until 1945 when he became manager of the Navajo Hotel for Dr. B. E. Briscoe. It was in that year that he started the newsstand business which he later moved to the Cook Cattle Co. office. In 1945 he was appointed police judge for the city of Willcox and in 1946 he entered politics for the first time when he ran and was elected to the Justice of Peace office. Judge Davis had been a member of the Christian church for many years and when times permitted was in attendance at the services. He is survived by his sons, Vernon of Phoenix, and Emmett of Riverside, by his stepdaughters, Isola Tillotson of Willcox, and Beulah Davis of Phoenix, by five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Pallbearers were Earl McHenry, Bruce Huffman, Sam Adcock, Fred Ditmars, Porter Fox and Ben Briscoe. Interment was in the Sunset cemetery. Arizona Range News. Willcox. (A picture accompanies the obituary.) February 9, 1951.

DAVIS, Virl, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Davis, died at their home Thursday evening August 12, 1916. The cause of death has not been definitely determined. Funeral services were held at the parents' home. Interment at the Miramonte cemetery. The Benson Signal.

Twelve grandchildren, 2 great grandchildren. Brother: Martin Davis of Charlotte, NC Mr. Davis had been a resident of Naco for 23 yrs. He had worked as an aircraft inspector for General Dynamics, retiring in 1973. Brewery Gulch Gazette, Bisbee, AZ, April 10, 1996, pg. 2.

DAVIS, W. S. "Daddy". Cochise Pioneer Dies in Douglas. Without hearse or pall bearers, according to the request of the deceased the last remains of W. S. (Daddy) Davis was carried to Will's cemetery at Douglas, Wednesday, "Daddy" who died at the ripe old age of 78, was well known throughout this section, being the father of Jim Dais, for many years night policeman in Tombstone. "I want an old fashioned funeral, said "Daddy" shortly before his death. "I don't want a gaudy hearse, high stepping plume decorated horses and white gloved pall bearers. When I die just put my body in the old wagon hitch up the old mare and haul me out to the burying ground. I know I'd be uneasy in a hearse." His request was carried out. "Daddy" Davis was a native of Georgia, but early in his youth decided to come west. He settled in Western Texas and resided in that section for a number of years. Twenty-five years ago he came to Arizona, going first to old Fort Thomas, in Graham county. Later he moved to Cochise county, coming first to Tombstone, and upon the establishment of Douglas, was one of the first settlers of that city. For some time he has resided on a homestead near that city. Tombstone Weekly Epitaph, Tombstone, AZ. Sunday, October 8, 1911. Pg. 2 (Transcribed by Jean Walker).

DICKINSON, Emma Kate. February 16, 1951. Funeral Services Held For Pioneer Sunday Afternoon. It was the desire of Mrs. Emma Kate Dickinson that she never become a burden on her only daughter nor on any of her five grandchildren, although any one of the six would have gladly taken her into their homes. She lived by herself until she became ill a short time ago when she was brought to the Valley Hospital where she could have good care. Death came early Sunday morning from complications of old age. Funerall services were conducted for this lady who loved solitude, in the Christian church Sunday afternoon at three o'clock with the Rev. C. E. Madinger conducting the services. Pall bearers were Dick Bott, Dale Bott, William Tuck, Marcus Holland, Harley Windsor and Richard Ellis. The Willcox Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Dickinson was born Oct. 13, 1874, in Texas and all through her life lived either on a farm or a ranch. She was married July 20, 1893, to John L. Dickinson in Belmont, Texas, who preceded her in deaths some 14 years ago. It was when civilization was having its ebb and flow in the Sulphur Springs Valley that the J.L. Dickinsons moved here from Stanford, Texas. They bought their first place northwest of Willcox from Claude Kuhn and his brother Jim and their first home was a dugout. This was the first land these two had ever owned and they paid cash for every square foot of it. They brought all of their cattle, machinery and household goods with them which filled tow box cars. For three years the Dickinsons lived in their dugout but those three years went by in a hurry for the Dickinsons knew they would someday have something better. They had several setbacks during these years which included the death of almost all of the 22 head of cattle they had brought with them. Heifers were bought for a small amount of money so the Dickinsons added to their expanding herd. As family after family moved away from that section of the country northwest of Willcox, the Dickinsons added to their holdings. The dugout was deserted when they added their first parcel of land to their original homestead for with their faithful team of mules they had moved the frame house to the spot near their windmill and their dugout. Mrs.

Dickinson worked alongside her husband in the tearing down of fences, the care of the cattle and in all of the work. She did everything on their ever-increasing acres but brand their cattle and she could not stand to do that. She was a typical pioneer woman because she early became accustomed to hard work. She was born into a family of ten girls and one boy and the father died when she was five years old. For centuries her Scotch-Irish ancestors had done farm work and she had no desire to do any other kind of work. From these people she inherited her fondness for cattle. When she sold her ranch several years ago she retained the lifetime right to have her home and a parcel of ground for her cows. Here she lived alone, grew her garden and pursued her hobby of making quilts. During her lifetime she made over 150 quilts from many different patterns and in many different ways. Colorful linings were her forte. Although she loved to have company she seldom left her ranch. Her only child, Mrs. Geo. Bott, or her granddaughter, Mrs. Bill Tuck, took needed supplies to her. Other survivors include her grandsons, Dick of Riveria, Calif., Carol of Arlington, Ariz., Dale, a Pfc in the Marines, Johnny, at the home of his parents, and her granddaughter, Evelyn Tuck of Willcox. All three grandsons who live away from here were home for the funeral. She is also survived by five great-grandchildren. Arizona Range News. Willcox.

DOOLY, J.W. Dooley Dies From Injuries Sustained in Naco Holdup. J. W. Dooley, the cook who was held up and left on the tracks near the Naco depot, died yesterday from the effects of the terrible mangling he received by being run over by a passing train. The circumstances attending the death of Dooley and the manner in which he was turned over to the Copper Queen hospital here, led Dr. Shine, head of the Copper Queen staff of physicians, to report the death to the coroner. The coroner was notified at 6 o'clock last evening and at once impaneled a jury composed of the following: S.A. Fisher, John F. White, J. A. Cummings, J. C. Krumlin, David Kincaid and William Lyle. The remains of the victim were viewed at the hospital last evening, and the jury ordered to report for final consideration of the death of Dooley tonight at 6 o'clock, when it is expected that witnesses will be procured who can throw some light on what happened after the finding of Dooley beside the track at Naco on Sunday evening. There is little hope that the murder, for such he transpires to be, will ever be convicted, for there seems to be no one who saw Dooley held up or saw anyone who knows of the affair. Dooley died yesterday at noon, either from the effects of his injuries or from the shock of the operation performed to remove his arm at the shoulder. J.W. Dooley was until the time of his death employed as a cook in the boarding houses at Lowell. On Sunday he went to Naco on business, and while there he got on a little spree he had over $50 in cash and a gold watch on his person when held up. This was missing, with the exception of a few dollars in small silver, when he was found beside the track on Sunday evening. When brought to the hospital in this city, after the operation had been performed, no word accompanied him concerning what had been done by the physicians who attended him in Naco. All that the company physicians could do to save the life of Dooley was done, but to no avail, and he succumbed to his injuries shortly after noon yesterday. Bisbee Daily Review, Bisbee, AZ. Wednesday, September 30, 1903. Pg 1. (Transcribed by Jean Walker).

DUDER, Alexkj. Fatal Accident. Two Men Killed at Bisbee West Mine Last Evening. Shortly after six o'clock last night a fatal accident occurred at the Bisbee West mine in which Frank Bowman and Alex Duder lost their lives. The company had been hoisting water all day from their lower levels and the rope and guide had become wet and the cold weather froze the cross-head, and when Bowman and Duder had descended in the bucket down about 500 feet the frozen cross-head broke and gave way dropping the bucket and its two occupants over 600 feet below. The engineer quickly gave the alarm and Superintendent Dwight went down and brought up the two mangled forms of Bowman and Duder. A messenger was dispatched to Bisbee and notified Judge M. J. Brown, who summoned a coroner's jury and left for the scene of the accident. In speaking of the accident last night Superintendent S.W. Clawson of the Copper Queen company said: "It was a terrible accident but such accidents are no uncommon where a bucket hoist is used and it was but a short time ago that just such a thing occurred up in Colorado and six miners lost their lives." Frank Bowman is a young man about 16 years old and has two brothers in Bisbee. Alex Duder is well known in the Copper Queen mine for nearly a year prior to his going over to Bisbee West.
